As members of the yearbook staff, we would like to congratulate you on being chosen as Seaside High School's Model Student of the Year! This decision was difficult to make, but after much consideration and many long nights, it was clear to the Seabreeze staff that you were the most qualified individual. Before you entered this school, you were merely a child. Now look at what you have become! Your smile's a little brighter, & you have a hop to your step. Maybe it's that A in driver's ed, or the after-taste left behind from the cafeteria food. Either way, we truly feel we have been graced by your presence.

FOR DEAR OLD SEASIDE KIDS WILL LIVE AGAIN
OUR HONORED NAMES WE'RE STRIVING TO DEFEND WE'RE GONNA PRAISE OUR SPIRIT WITH ALL OUR MIGHT
AND FOR THE FISH-ER-MAN WE'LL FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT
WE'LL NEVER LET THAT SEASIDE SEAGULL DIE
WE'RE GONNA KEEP ON STUDYING, WONDERING WHY
WE'RE GONNA ROLL THOSE GRADES UP TO THE SKY
TO THE SKY
RAH, RAH, RAH, FIGHT!

As an avid spectator of diet and weight loss programs I was intrigued by Subway's new approach with propaganda. Jarrod, "The Subway Guy" along with his many followers ordered a six grams of fat or less sub and magically lost three or more pant sizes. While the Fast food industry made it's nutritiously balanced debut, the yearbook staff had a theme deadline.

What was to be the theme? No one but Kevin wanted a clock on the cover. I decided to enlighten my classmates with a theme idea inspired by weight watchers everywhere. I thought why not have a theme based on transition. If Jarrod's Before & After photo was so popular and convincing, why wouldn't Before & After work as a yearbook theme?

Before & After... How many times have you changed during your teenage career? That's what I thought... a lot, huh? Whatever the transformation, you will remember the story that lead up to it and the future that became of it. Whether it be love for a sport that used to burn a bonfire in your heart, that was sizzled out by a wave of new players and coaches. Or perhaps you moved and found living in Seaside comparable to going on exchange in another country. Whatever changes encompassed you, our job was to fill the yearbook with those memories. We know it happened, we'll leave the specifics of Before & After up to you.

Summer

From closet raiding and log rafting in the South Umpqua, to country hopping and cliff jumping in Wild Horse Canyon, Seaside High School students were definitely able to keep themselves busy during their much needed three month vacation. Some spent their time working, while others passed their time hanging out with friends. While the summer was just fun and games for some people others worked hard to get their Pacifica Projects out of the way. Cory Wood held a beach volleyball tournament as his senior project, making sure to hold it during the summer so that there would plenty of sun.

Overall, the summer was a success, leading Zoe Fenton to conclude, "Irony: Summer comes, and we try not to sleep, for fear of wasting it. Then when it's gone, we are left, wasted, to sleep in hopes of dreaming remembrances."

A group of about nineteen people left in late June for a two week trip to Great Britain. During the two weeks, they traveled through Ireland, Wales, Scotland and England and saw some fantastic scenery with Kelley McKirdy who organized the trip. Lindsey Oyala generously bought everyone stick-on earrings with matching rings and they couldn't resist showing them off downtown.

The school year kicked off with sunshine and daily doubles as sports and activities started up for another year. Schedule changes and reunions between friends carried the student body through September and the first few dances.

SHS greeted foreign exchange student Silke Haas, and waved off out-bound juniors Lynnette Harbison and Jessica Johnson, who traveled to Belgium and Brazil, respectively.

Haas hailed from Germany, and instantly found a kindred spirit in "Hawes," who was heard telling Haas that she had the most beautiful last name in the world.

The new school year saw the end of "Op Block," and replaced it instead with Study Lab during the mornings two days a week. The Study Lab was only required for freshmen and sophomores, so the upper classmen were able to relish in an extra hour and a half sleep every Wednesday and Friday.

Through October, the good weather held, making locals look like fools for warning newcomers of the terrible rainy weather which was just around the corner ["Honest, Mr. Schneekloth, it rains 24/7 in November!"]. At great personal costs, Activity Directors John Wallace and Trevor Nagle put on Homecoming assemblies every day during the week, breaking up the monotony of school which was settling in on students and teachers alike.

And still the weather held.

With assemblies every day, and contests ranging from karaoke to class banners, even the "No spirit since '98" class of 2002 got involved, winning their first yell contest on Pajama day.

Along with Pajama day, there was Cowboy day, Hawaiian day, Corporate Logo/Cross-Dress day, and School Spirit day.

Harmony Jiroudek and Ben Fry took on the personas of Mariah Carey and Louis Armstrong during the karaoke competition, while David McAlinden and Mike Shimmin showed off their break dancing skills for the rest of the school. Seniors won the Homecoming Spirit Competition for the third year in a row, with the sophomores coming in second.

The Homecoming game proved to be as exciting and nerve-wracking as expected, with the Gulls finishing on top with a score of 37 and the Banks Braves a lowly 12. The fans were loud, the weather was great, and the Seaside school spirit was everywhere. Numerous fans painted their faces, and some of the more spirited even dyed their hair for the special occasion.

the fall play

The doors creaked open. Sunlight flooded backstage, for the first time in forever. It was my moment. I stepped through, onto the rickety make-shift loading dock. Turning my gaze upward I smiled with disgust at the view. Inhaling a whiff of dumpstery air, I crinkled my nose and turned around, the steps beneath me shrieking with pain. I stepped back across the threshold to safety, my apocalyptic venture behind me. None of this would have been possible if not for the incredible throwing-away-of-junk efforts of Mr. Phil White. From this first step toward cleanliness, White proved to be the best thing that happened to our theater department since... well, since Starke.

The Seaside High School drama department continued its tradition of pulling together at the last possible split-second. By the second week of "rehearsal" with half a turnout, Mr. White had begun to master the recasting threats. But, of course, he knew that his gut instincts were the best, and he held out until we pulled together for him.

Mizell Trips

On September 17-18 seven students loaded into Mark Mizell's van and headed for Washington, looking for excitement and adventure. The next two days were spent under the tutelage of Robert Michael Pyle, a nature writer. Whether it was kayaking, flipping the kayaks, water fights, sleeping under the stars, or putting thoughts onto paper, it was all fun and excitement.

The second trip was a little closer to home but just as much fun. On September 24-25 everyone loaded their bikes into the van and headed for Fort Stevens. There they were met by Neal Maine, a local nature and history expert, who guided a bike tour through the trails of Fort Stevens. After a good nights sleep in the yurts and breakfast around the camp fire, everyone gathered their bikes and headed to a logging road near Youngs River Falls. The nine-mile bike ride took almost all day and the road was rough, but plenty of breaks to admire the scenery, and some bag lunches, kept everyone going.

After lunch everyone dropped their bikes and headed off the beaten path into an old growth forest. Maine knew everything there was to know about the forest, so the group made themselves comfortable and educated themselves on its ecosystem. The ride back to the vans was much faster, as bikes hurtled down the hill, back the way they had come.

winter concert

On the evening of December 13th, hundreds of people gathered at the Seaside Convention Center for Seaside High School Music Departments 2000 Winter Concert. "The concert was very Christmasy and there were quite a few people," reflects James Kirk. Both the Band and the Choir had been practicing for months in preparation for the concert and were pleased with the turn out.

Bel Canto started off the event with Fum Fum Fum, Silent Night, and Here Comes Santa Clause, appropriate music for the holiday season. Jazz ensemble followed with Fox Run, solos by Tony West and Jeff Gosser, No B-3 Blues, solo by Aaron Webb, and Little Brown Jug, solos by Kyle Romine, Mitch Brown, and Clinton Mead.

Concert Choir continued enchanting the audience with Still Still Still and Carol of the Bells. Symphonic Band played Greensleaves, Alleluia from Exultate, Jubilate Motet, and A Christmas Collage. Then, Chamber Choir took the stage with O'Magnum Mysterium and the concert was brought to a graceful end with the combined groups singing Hallelujah Chorus.

We would like to extend warm congratulations to Caroline Park, Amanda Sampson, and Clinton Mead who all qualified for the All-State Band. In choir, Tim Burke, Harmony Jiroudek, Kelsey Mousley, Mike Neilson, Duke Park, and Jennifer Sopko all made the All State Choir.

Elko

"Hoorrrrible!!" Actually, not really. We just like saying that. Will the madness never stop? In between snowball fights, cowboy poetry, movie making, train rides, swing dancing, and murderous rampages on the downstairs bunks, we found time to do some creative writing. We met up with cowboy poet Paul Zarzyski, and had a four hour workshop where we discussed the meaning of love, life, and snow virginity...whatever that means, all while being peppered by such intelligent phrases as, "Where/what the hell?" and "I could make an audience pee down the legs of their chairs with that."

We struck out at 11:30 on Saturday, the 27th of February. A two hour bus ride led us to the Amtrack train station where we boarded the Coast Startlight train for 8 hours to Kalamath Falls to sleep on the high school gym floor with minimal lighting. From there we went to Yamsi Ranch where we learned of all the joys of feeding cows and stepping in the aftermath. After Yamsi we boarded the California Zephyr to Sacramento where we hooked up with Jon Broderick's younger brother James who gave us a tour of the town. From Sacramento we went to Elko, Nevada where we met up with our host families. We stayed with them the 4 days that we were in Elko. While in Nevada we experienced cowboy poetry at its finest. We collectively made movies, wrote poetry, danced our little hearts out, learned how to throw playing cards into a cowboy hat, and bowled into the wee hours of the morning, meaning 5:30 am.

After all the festivities we somberly boarded the train and headed to Sacramento for a 5 hour layover where we explored the town. After the layover we were on the train for 16 hours until we arrived in P-town. The bus trip was a recap of the wonderful experience we all shared.

Wintertime came but the snow never fell.

Another winter graced our small town, freezing the ground but leaving us without a speck of snow. We all watched the ball drop from Times Square as we celebrated the beginning of a new millennium.

Our winter break was brief and upon our return many new things took place. Controversies surrounded us regarding our winter formal dance. Was it Sweethearts or Snowball? It took place in January but was decorated with red and pink, so it still remains a mystery. With the start of a brand new term, report cards were sent out and we all faced our doom!

The winter sports continued as all of our teams strived to compete in the state tournaments.

Amongst the academics came the Rube Goldberg projects and the end to Senior Research Papers. The new junior and senior members were inducted into National Honor Society and began their road to community service.

Mark Mizell took students to Elko and they shared an experience of a lifetime. A new play took shape and we looked forward to saying Bye Bye to Birdie.

The school was frightened by a 7.0 magnitude earthquake that shook the coast from Seattle to Salem, and traveled as far inland as Salt Lake City, Utah! Adding excitement to an ordinary day, it also brought fears of a tsunami.

All in all winter came and went with a flash, leaving everyone very aware that the year was half over. The time to get serious and cram had come and Pacifica Project stress was in the air. The days were shorter and the weather was colder as we all went about our business.

The sun finally began to shine as we jumped into spring. The year was approaching its long-awaited end and summer restlessness had set in.

Spring break was a big hit with its week of freedom and opportunity. Some ventured to Mexico and some stayed within the north coast. The highlight for 32 students and 5 chaperones was their opportunity to explore Costa Rica. The trip was filled with lounging in thermal baths, swinging through treetops, rafting down an exciting white water river, and snorkeling in the warm waters off-shore of a private, secluded island.

There were more stories and memories than could fit in an entire book: John

The entire group spent a night at a primitive jungle lodge, with no electricity and many jungle beasts. In fact, in the Tucan cabin there were near death experiences with Becky Stewart, Lynzie Mizell, and Esther Frank. Four scorpions and a couple of huge spiders made them true survivors of the great outdoors. Chad Winters, Kevin Irish, and Gus Molan also had experiences with five huge spiders. Holding a candle in his left hand, and bug spray in his right hand, Kevin managed to chase the spiders away with his homemade flame-thrower.

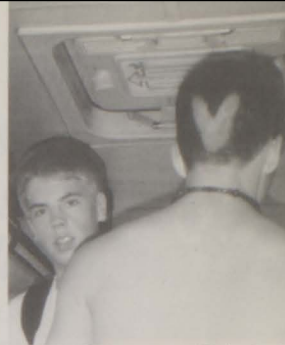

Developing into a season of memories, spring was fun for all whether they stayed nearby or traveled abroad.

26 — spring performances —

Energy was high at the spring performances. This is the deal. As if the end of the year were not confusing and busy enough, the drama department—not content with sell-out crowds at the musical at the start of the season—and the music department—not content with taking 4th at Choir State in the same month and gearing up for graduation—between them throw a couple of first rate events: the Murder Mystery Dinner and the Pops Concert.

Both events are held in the SHS Cafetorium and whether your ideal is to eat, listen, ask performers questions, or have a fun evening, these two nights filled the bill. Three choirs and Jazz Band and Concert Band played at the Pops evening.

The dinner menu included Salmon on a bed of Couscous, vegetables, foccacia bread, salad with pears and bleu cheese, and tapioca with strawberries.

To top it all off, the Sponge made its appearance the end of May.

A Final Presentation to the Community

30 — Pacifica Presentations

For seniors the Pacifica Project Presentations marks the end of a 4-year high school career, the graduation of a scholar, and the beginning of a new life beyond Seaside.

50 hours of community service, careful planning, and hard work all lead up to just 12 to 15 minutes guided only by a few index cards and perhaps to a carefully edited video. Although students practice relentlessly until they can confidently rattle off their speeches, showtime is still a bit unnerving. The presentation is a chance for students to describe what they did, how it ties into their senior research paper, and how they exhibited important skills: leadership, commitment, collaboration, communication, organization, and service.

The project was also a chance for seniors to give back to the community after its years of support to Seaside High School students. Students contributed to the community through a wide array of projects, from counting trees, to oral history, to volunteering for the lions club.

With their presentations behind them, seniors formerly end their high school careers by walking down the aisle and receiving the diploma that certifies that four years of hard work and determination have been worth it.

2001 graduation

Traditionally, graduation speeches follow a set precedent. They are sometimes witty, sometimes clever, sometimes humorous. Others are themed with insight and intelligent reflection demonstrating wisdom and hindsight. All strive to prove that we have evolved into thoughtful, intelligent, mature individuals, capable of packing up and heading out on our own.

So I thought and thought about what to say and I realized that I don't feel like that. I'm tired of trying to sound intelligent and mature; we all are. We have had to write eloquently in our Senior Research Paper, act responsibly for our community service projects, and speak maturely at our Pacifica Presentations. We have had to look dynamic to admission boards and promising on scholarship applications.

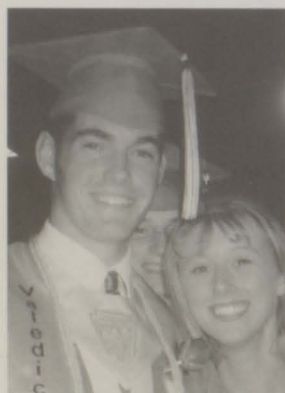

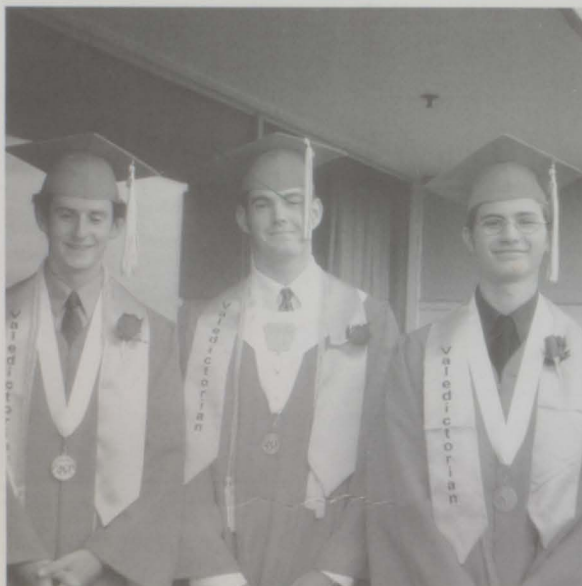

Let's be frank. Is this who we are? Couldn't all of our fancy lingo be reduced to simple statements of our real intent. "Let me into your school, help me pay for your school, and 'Look!' I really can to a community service project!"

So heck with intellectualism, articulation, verbal dexterity, and luminating language. Let's cut to the chase. Isn't it over? Aren't we done? It's summer and school as we know it is finished. We did our work, we did our time, we did our CIMs. Nothing we can say now will affect our GPA. For some of us, job interviews are just around the corner, college threatens to open a whole new chapter of learning, and bills aren't just on ducks anymore.

So let's not complicate tonight. I'm gonna give it to ya plain and simple, short and sweet. No ornamental extras, no fancy packaging; just the goods...

Good times, Good luck, Goodbye.

It is much like government documents made public... most of what you wanted to read is buried under black ink." And what would that black ink conceal? How about the day Valedictorian Adrian Anderson described, the skipping day Zoe Fenton was bet first a buck, then two, and eventually more that he wouldn't throw up on the merry-go-round. Zoe took the bet. "He soon recognized his mistake... We all laughed and kept spinning. He groaned; it was a painful sound..." Eventually, Fenton won his bet and crawled off the equipment. "Zoe looked disgusting, but he had fifteen dollars and we admired him a little more that day." But all good things must end... "And as we leave here, into the night air, take a moment to congratulate yourselves for a job well done," Peter Broderick, Valedictorian. Jeff Budnick, Valedictorian, contributed a grin.

"Descending into a pit of bitter fury and rage, not a rusty, hollow or broken cage, will bind me hence, to what might be sought in the end—redemption. That will be obtained through divine intervention.

The perils and woe have taken their toll on the inner demons, that plague all dreams with horrific tales unknown, yet with iudicium known, the light will be shown, led by arcane valor.

Victory and vengeance will not be gained, until the final blow ordained. Intervigilium eternal, towards thee who causes pain. Thrown down to hell, with ignus flame, is the battle won? Has Venus' viator let light the sun? Or has the vigilant evil, like inandantia, so great powers? The conflict wages on, for endless hours. Nothing solved, shattered, cowered.

Even with the setting sun, the war is never lost nor won. Good and evil stand as one."

In a woven rope, our time together is recorded—showing the lives of our classmates and of our own. The souls that have arrived and stayed and those that have departed—all strands, dipping and weaving within and around the experiences of one another.

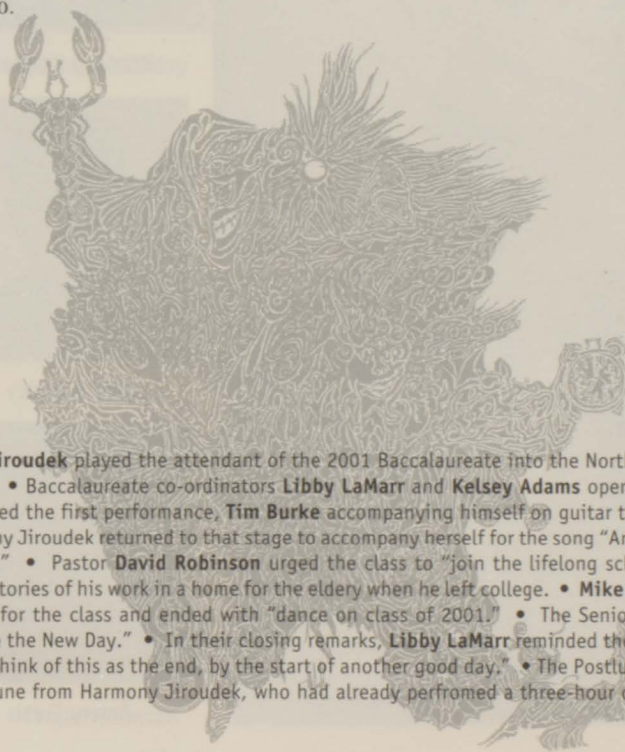

The rope began as a mere thread—looking thin and frail, yet deceptively standing strong—its strength reinforced by a few dozen strands—the infamous kindergarten clan.

Then, as time wore on, so did the weave—growing and building with every addition, every newcomer, every child. Look closely, and you can follow your own thread and interpret your adventures among its curves and dips. Recall the laughter and good times of innocence—the good times that we have had together.

As the rope commences, so does it thicken—its strong binds leading us in and through the joys and hardships of middle school, as our learned insights and feelings bring together the intricate and unique weave. Finally, as we entered our last four years together, the tightly woven twine that we had become—so did the twisting cord aid us—pulling us through, just as we had pulled each other through our own mishaps and trials.

Yet, during these last few hours of our time together, do not think that this rope will be severed. Rather, with our diverging lives, be confident that this rope will follow each of us in our chosen directions—keeping each on our life course—and holding you and me, all of us eternally close to those that we have grown to love.

"It was our first varsity practice and we were all shooting at the goal. AJ shot over the goal and hit a van driving by. The van's mirror fell shattering on the ground. After we had to go over and talk to the driver, we knew that we were in for a great season," Adrian Anderson reflected.

Seniors Jeff Budnick, AJ Weber, Evan Wickersham, Dana Benson, Aaron Pogue, Adrian Anderson, and Zoe Fenton led the team through a great 2000 season. Fellow teammates included Jeff Sturgeon, Chad Winters, Greg Boucher, Blake Malo, Jeff Hinton, Mark Budnick, Joe Oyala, Kyle Romine, Tony West, David Doyle, Vito Cerelli, Ben Dueber, and Jared Cederstrom. Coaching the boys team another year Jon Broderick and Matt Johnson.

Seaside stunned its opponents with a flurry of offensive attacks and with their seemingly invincible defense held the opposition to a measly eight goals through the entire season. Standing strong in the goal, District MVP player Budnick blocked several balls, booting them from seagull territory.

Seaside's players were among the most competitive in the league, placing second at districts. Budnick, Fenton, and Weber were among the few in the league that received recognition as First Team All League players. Making Second Team All League from Seaside, Pogue and Wickersham. Anderson picked up Honorable Mention.

“Seaside has come back to being a tough team and not a fancy team, we earn our victories through hard work and determination.”

—Jon Broderick, head coach

You want it? I got it, just try to get it! Leading scorer for Seaside, AJ Weber weaves his way through the defense once again. • Seniors deserve to get their picture in the yearbook. First Team All League Zoe Fenton holds the ball while the offense gets set.

girls soccer

"We are the Seagulls, the mighty, mighty Seagulls." After seeing Remember the Titans, the Seaside girls' varsity soccer team was inspired to be remembered.

The girls took the title of Cowapa League Champions, which led them all the way to the State Playoffs.

The team overcame many struggles this year. There must have been a record amount of injuries, but they, too were overcome.

The team pulled together when it was critical and learned the value of teamwork. Each player adjusted well to playing in unfamiliar positions and formations upon request. Overall the season went well.

The State Playoffs were a disappointment, but each player will be remembered for the time, effort, and commitment that she contributed to this season.

The girls found many ways to have fun. Kara Dugan and Kellye Balzer's inspiration was very encouraging. The team will always remember "Big Booty" and that famous chant that fired up the team before each game: "Brrr! It's cold in here, there must be some seagulls in the atmosphere!" Congratulations to a great season, lady gulls. It is truly one that will be remembered.

~This season was dedicated in loving memory to Debbie Darling~

When the dreaded week of Daily Doubles started for the program, the Varsity girls got to stick around for an additional week to work on their speed and quickness.

Having a full roster of twelve girls, the team started their season off early by playing teams away from home on their four-day team bonding trip to Redmond, Oregon.

The captains this year were Ashley Strickland, the floor captain, Lauren Huntsman, and Hannah Kraske who were inspirational leaders. Strickland and Huntsman both recieved All-League honors with Kraske and teammate Stacy Van Epps as Honorable Mention.

At the awards banquet, Ashley Strickland was declared the team's MVP. Lindsay Williams was voted most improved and Hannah Kraske as most inspirational. The team said farewell that evening to Coach Shephard who will not return as assistant coach for next season. The program and Coach Boyd will miss her immensely but hold fond memories.

72 — boys & girls x-country

This Cross Country season was one of contrast and fun. There was never a dull moment whether runners were challenging Coach Neil Branson's 325m sprints at practice, snapping digital pictures with Assistant Coach Mike Brown's high tech cameras, or listening to Olympian/Assistant Coach Jim Grelle's many stories.

The girls team took second place at the district meet. This was a tremendous victory considering that they ran with very small numbers and injured teammates. All League honors went to Charlie Gilliam, Kilee Johnson, Robyn Stowers, and Lindsey Ter Har. Senior Gilliam was voted Runner of the Year by teammates while Most Inspirational went to Johnson and Most Improved to Stowers.

The boys team placed fifth at Districts with everyone running their hardest. Jake Siler was the top male runner placing in the top 14 and earning All-League. Siler was also voted the Most Improved runner by his teammates, while Russell Mead was voted Most Inspirational. Runner of the Year went to freshman, Stefan Robinson.

The team as a whole was built on contrast and diversity. With only three seniors, the team was a young one. Freshman boys contributed great fun to the season. There was never a dull moment when the Cross Country team was round. That's for sure!

The freshman runner was voted Runner of the Year by teammates. The team was very fortunate for his decision to join this fall. • Running through the pain, for the glory. Jake Siler gives it all that he's got at the District meet. Siler's facetious humor kept the team's spirit light throughout the season.

The 2000 Gulls were a tightly knit team of friends and committed athletes. They had many rituals throughout the season that promoted team unity. Before every home game, the entire team including the coaches, would go to North Coast Family Fellowship to eat dinner prepared by their parents. The team also took advantage of late-start Fridays to go out to breakfast at the Pig-N-Pan-

away.

After every victory, Richard Walsborn would lead the entire team in the SHS fight song in the end-zone. Unfortunately the secret of Richard's great voice got out, and it was heard at several pep-assemblies. Each member of the team was given a "link"—a key chain—which represented his individual role on the team. Before each game, everyone would listen to the poem and clip their links together, forming an unbreakable chain.

The 2000 Gulls were not expected to be a strong power in the League, but the team proved this wrong by finishing above 500, and third in the District. The team also made it to the State Playoffs for the first time since 1994. Coach Foust proved himself worthy of carrying on the tradition of excellence, though this was only his second season for the Gulls.

Up and over! Number 43, Jerry Zapata, leaps over his opponent's attempt to slow him down. As a senior, Zapata ran for over 284 yards with 3 touchdowns. But this great run could never have gotten far without the help of a great block from number 27, Airic Saucedo. • Stop him in the backfield. Rich Walsborn and Jerry Zapata stop an opposing runner in his tracks. • Way to be!!! Rich Walsborn pats teammate and friend Mike Shimmin on the back as he walks by, this was taken during the final home game where all the Seniors were honored with a rose and comforting words from their friends.

Cheerleaders really got into the Seaside spirit these two seasons. They practiced night and day on perfecting their routines and cheers. Not only did they support the athletes at games and matches, but also spent hours on end perfecting and creating locker decorations and spirit posters.

Summer practices got those routines and cheers down solid. Cheerleaders performed dances at pep assemblies and football games. The fall squad seniors were Kelsey Adams, Brette Docekal, Jessica Brown, Erin Benson, Emily Gilbertson, Nicole Golubickas, Natile Postlewaite, junior Aimee Whitlock, and sophomores Heidi Ter Har, Tasha Reidlinger, Brianna Holderbaum, Janelle McQuilliams, and Natalie Pfund. Docekal and Pfund really kicked it up a notch with there amazing tumbling skills. The season ended with a thirteen hour bus ride to Burns for the State football play-off game.

The Winter season squad was lucky enough to have the professional chorographer, Stacy Jay, to create a awesome dance to the song by Tre Black "Put your back into it," performed at the state tournament. Each cheerleader was a vauleable assest to the squad. The winter cheerleading squad consisted of Seniors Adams, Brown, Gilbertson, Golubickas, Postlewaite, Benson, Kara Dugan, and Gretchen Harer, junior Whitlock. Sophomores Ter Har, Reidlinger, freshmen Jamie Slovak and Laura Pietila. Cory Wood, first male cheerleader in many years, was especially famouse for his toe touches.

The 2000-2001 season was filled with close games and breathtaking finishes. The team had a lot of talent and worked very well together. As the season began, the team got off to a frustrating start, losing a couple of tough games. Coaches Bill Westerholm and Jason Boyd stayed positive and the team rallied back at the end of the season winning three out of their last six games.

The last game of the season against Rainier was a tough one. A win would give Seaside the chance to play Astoria one last time and a possible trip to the playoffs. It was close all the way through the game, pretty much trading basket for basket. Rainier ended up pulling ahead at the end, but Garrett Parks took a shot at the buzzer that rattled out. Like the climax of a Hollywood movie, the shot would have won the game, but Rainier won the game by a single point ending the season for Seaside. "The last few games of the season really showed that we (Seaside) were equally matched with any team in the Cowapa League. We really came together and worked as a team, and things just came together."-- Trevor Nagle reflects on the season's finale.

Twelve girls, one hundred-eleven years of playing basketball, and just one goal for the season. The state tournament.

Some had their doubts. They looked at us and shook their heads. They won't last through round two, they said. They'll break down mentally, physically, and emotionally. They aren't strong enough to make it to the state tournament. They were wrong.

Ding, ding, ding. Round one. League season. Seaside beats Astoria in overtime. Soller is out with an injury and Seaside is tied for first with Astoria and Rainier. Ding. Round two, the cold sweeps through, knocking out seven players. Runny noses, injuries, and fevers drop Seaside into the number two spot. Ding. Round three. (You'd think it would get old playing every team in the league three times!) Seaside rebounds quickly from illnesses and secures the number two spot in league, taking them to state in Corvallis, despite Snair's knee injury against Rainier.

Returning from the state tournament in 2000, seniors Ginny Soller, Hannah Kraske, and Jessica Heslop, along with juniors Monica Teeple, Holly Snair, Courtney Flukinger, and Lindsey Mizell used their experience to guide first year varsity players Kaisa Ter Har, Stevie Burke, Brittany Brigham, Maggie Olstedt, and Derai Darling.

Can't touch this! Senior Hannah Kraske makes her move through two defenders to score. Kraske was named an All League player for her outstanding rebounding, boxing out, posting up, and great leadership. She also recieved the Sportsmanship award from the North Coast referees. • Up high? Down low? Too slow joe. Senior Ginny Soller out plays her defender taking her to the rack. Ginny led the team in points and assists, with her three years experience at the state tournament in Covallis.

Wrestling

The only thing holding this years Seaside High School wrestling team back was numbers. Because the team had to forfeit so many weight classes, they didn't win any league team matches. Despite this setback they made up in a big way during state taking 4th place: with only one other team from our league placing higher. This was due to the professional performance and exceptional talent of the experienced players as well as the marked improvement of the newcomers in both the regular and post season matches.

Because many of the tournaments included large 4A teams with full rosters, the SHS team had the chance to gain valuable wrestling experience against some tough competition. This forced them to meet, or even exceed their personal season goals.

The season was also marked by individual achievement. The team had three members place in state: Josh Austin placed 5th and David McAlinden placed 7th. Chad Winters placed 3rd and was named outstanding wrestler in the district.

84 — boys & girls swimming —

Fifty swimmers started the season. Eleven made it on to State. They combined to win eleven state medals, four state records, and two incredible swim teams.

The girls side was joined by Warrenton High School swimmers Synnove Glarum and 'foreigner'

Katerina Tyrell. They finished undefeated in League and first in District 1. At Districts, the 400 Free relay broke the long-standing record, and also captured wins in both the 200 Medley Relay and the 200 Free Relay.

The boys team had additional help from homeschoolers David Rankin and Seth Collins. They fought hard, winning five events which placed them 2nd at Districts.

On to State...

The girls sent five swimmers in individual and relay events. The 200 Medley Relay and 400 Free Relay both placed second. Ther 200 Free Relay won, shattering the old SHS state record in a time of 1:43.99. Along with relays, Julie Visser broke her sister's state record in the 100 Fly with a time of :59.06. Sally Denotta also helped by placing fourth in the 100 Free with a personal best time of :57.71 (see top left photo). Overall, the girls placed second.

Originally seated sixth, the boys stunned everyone with outstanding relays and individual performances. The team won the 200 and 400 freestyle relays in 1:33.92 and 3:29.34, respectively. In individual races, Matt Stowers set new state records in the 50 free (:21.49) and the 100 free (:47.54). Moving up four places, the boys ended their season with a second place finish at State.

WHS swimmer Synnove Glarum pushes her way through the 500 freestyle. Glarum qualified to go onto State, where she swam in the preliminaries. • "Come on, Wallace, move those legs!" John Wallace hauls through the 100 backstroke to beat Astoria's Chris Lang by .05 seconds to take first at Districts. Wallace went on to place sixth at State with a time of 1:03.03.

“You know it's gotta be good when even Julie [Visser] and Sally [Denotta] will cheer.”

John Wallace on how great the year was “It’s a bird, it’s a plane, no! it’s...SPEEDOMAN!” Matt Stowers dives in on his 100 freestyle. Stowers won the event at Districts, and surprised everyone at State by winning the event in record time from the outside lane, where he was seated fifth. • One down, three to go. Heidi Orr pushes off of her backstroke turn during her 200 individual medley, where she placed eighth at Districts.

Remember the Seagulls

baseball

The 2001 boys baseball season was nothing less than "Tytyte". The team kicked off the season with some impressive non-league wins and played their hearts out against some of the state's top teams at the Grant Union Tourney.

Back again to defend their title of Cowapa League Champions against such fiendish foes as Astoria and Rainier, the mighty mighty Seagulls remained a team to be reckoned with throughout the season, finishing fourth in League.

The 2001 baseball squad found themselves with some large shoes to fill. Every player stepped up his game a notch to contribute to the team's die hard attitude and dedication.

The four top teams in the district including our dear own Seaside fought a close race for the district title. Once the dust settled, Seaside ended up with the fuzzy end of the lollipop finishing one game away from the playoffs and hopes of a State title.

This season had its fair share of good ol' Seaside goofiness. Between songwriting, Brooksie ballin', and gathering around Jon Brown for story time, the squad had little time for baseball. Strangely enough somewhere along the line this team of fearless competitors found the strength and skills to defeat even the toughest opponent.

Ending the season with plenty of success and disappointment, the 2001 varsity baseball team had no trouble continuing the age old Seaside tradition of playing some fine ball.

Budnick was the Cowapa league MVP, as well as being chosen for the Roseburg All Star team. He also led the teams hitting game with an impressive average of .520! • Gotta use your Pfundies! First Team All League Senior Nate Pfund puts his fundamental skills to work, replaying Dierickx's words of wisdom in his head. Apparently it was good advice as Pfund soon found out, finishing his senior season with a batting average of .437 spacktacular! ## Softball

The "rebuilding" season lead by team captains, Amanda Phillips and Kenna Maltman started out strong in the preseason, amazing the teams around, but fell short towards the end of the year. They were 5-2 in preseason, but ended the year with a record of 3-15.

Though the team wasn't as strong behind the plate as others, defensively, they were one of the most disciplined Seaside teams ever. With new Assistant Coach Lisa Hankwitz and Tom Mauldin returning as Head Coach, the team rampaged their way through yet another competitive season.

Amanda Phillips even ended the season playing all nine positions, and freshmen pitcher, Kate Ayres, contributed to the team's success, pitching in a number of strong games.

The team endured many rigorous practices, but changed things around a little with a few more exciting events (not that practice isn't exciting). Tom Mauldin treated the team to dinner at the newly opened Clark's restaurant, followed by the play Steel Magnolias at the Coaster Theatre.

The coaches also set up a beach softball tournament, where JV and Varsity mixed it up a bit. As the team continues to mature, they are all looking forward to another year.

90 — boys & girls track and field

So how was the season? Segregated buses, red chili pepper shirts on "S", and a state title pretty much sum it up.

The girls team took the League title, placed fourth at Districts and 16th at State. Nora Beckman set a new school record of 9'8" in the pole vault, and numerous other athletes moved up on the all-time record list. The girls throwing team was diagnosed early on with appendicitis by Dr. Heidi Orr, which became number one on the top five funny moments for the year. Monica Teeple went undefeated in League in the 100M, 200M, long jump and as anchor on the 4x100M relay. At the State meet, the girl's 4x400M relay broke the school record in 4:02.22 to place 2nd in the finals.

After taking second in League by one point, the boys went on to place second at Districts and WON State. Adrian Anderson crushed the school records in both the 1500M (4:02.61) and the 3000M (8:49.41). Anderson beat arch nemesis Aaron Eckert to win the 3000 at state. Shawn McCord won the javelin for the second year in a row with a school record throw of 196'10". The 4x400M relay went undefeated in League, and placed third at State (3:26.23). The 4x100M relay won Districts, and came in 2nd at the Meet of Champions.

The girls team were District champions, and placed second at the State Tournament and were also given the title public school state champions. The boys scored second at districts, and were fifteenth at State.

The girls State Tournament was held at Eagle Crest Golf Course near Redmond. The first day consisted of a practice round to get warmed up. The first official round was played on the second day, and the second round was played on the third day. Unlucky Michelle was struck by a golf ball that was hit by a teammate. Even though she was hit it didn't seem to bother her when she was able to place 3rd in the State.

The boys State Tournament was played at Eagle Ridge. The practice round was held on the first day, and the two official rounds followed.

This was the last year for the boys coach Dennis Vaughn.

Real World

It takes more than winning sports teams, field trips, assemblies, state assessments, student government, social studies, English, math, science, P.E., and plays to make up a great high school. Many times some of the most outstanding people in the student body go unnoticed.

We've all seen each other walking through the halls, but how often is it that we take the opportunity to stop and introduce ourselves or say hello? Our school is made up of so many unique people it's hard to recognize the accomplishments of every person.

Work and play are different for everyone, whether you play the guitar or work at Papa Murphy's, everyone's part in the community is important. In the end it's not the test scores, family relationships, jobs, or after school activities that matter. We're thrown in a mix and what we do together helps to shape who we are and how we get along.

Alternatives

What do kids do when they're not in school? Many activities go on outside the campus of Seaside High School. Some of these are considered sports, and some push the edge of what is supposed to be politically correct. The point, however, is that many students participate in non-school-related activities. These range from hackey-sack to surfing to flying kites. Students' hidden talents are revealed when the school bell rings.

I couldn't survive school without her! Cindy McGorty pauses in fixing coffee beverages to take a picture. What do you mean, when are we gonna use this? It's the most educational thing we've done all year! Math teacher Mitch Ward demonstrates the cool things teachers will do to get into the yearbook.

He's got his PhD. He's the superintendent. AND he's the master of the forward summersault off a running start. In spite of a suit and tie, Dr. Doug Dougherty straps on Garrett Parks' yellow spikes and performs his first jump into a long jump pit in 22 years. There may be a hole in my wall, but I only did that once! History teacher Michael Hawes gets wild and crazy during one of his many lectures. With the help of his "soul stick" Hawes manages to restrain himself from giving the birdie today.

"This is how to carry the baton East Coast style" New head track coach and—uh—teacher Charles Schneekloth II or "S" as he is more commonly known, poses with the sacred relay baton during track practice. "S" hailed from New Jersey to lead the boys track team to a state title. You're number one if you drive with me! Driver's Education instructor Stubby Lyons shows off the new driver's ed car.

SHS's tribute to Rachel Anderson

*I had a dream the other night about my sis all dressed in white
I saw her golden wings and heard her say
Don't worry little sis, now everything's OK*

she was dancing and even twirled for a while Her halo was on top of her* *long brown curly hair

it was then I realized this was not a dream but a prayer.*

*I pray you are happy and in no pain
I'll miss you sis
until I see you again
-Abby (Rachel's sister)*

140 — an angel to remember —

Rachel Anderson was someone that we will never forget. She was diagnosed with liposarcoma cancer in the Spring of 2000 and passed away on the evening of March 3, 2001.

Rachel is most remembered for her positive attitude and kind words. She always knew just what to say when someone was down. "All through our school days, Rachel stayed positive and always did her best to succeed in everything we did," says friend and classmate Jesse Austin. Jesse went on to talk about how Rachel had helped him with a project that he had slacked off on and how she came to his aid. Rachel was always willing to help those in need.

Rachel's warm heart and sweet qualities were captured by friends and acquaintances in special letters written to her after her death. Haley Owens explained in a letter written to Rachel "You still managed to keep a smile on your face through the toughest and hardest times." That was one of Rachel's greatest qualities. She took the good with the bad and went on with a smile on her face.

Another one of Rachel's qualities was her fairness towards others. Heidi Ter Har wrote "I admire the way you treated everyone equally." Rachel was an all around good hearted friend and classmate.

Rachel was involved in choir throughout both her middle school and high school years. She preformed with style and grace. Singing was one of her specialties. Not only was Rachel an exceptional singer, she was also a splendid actress. Rachel played Aladdin's mother in her 8th grade play, "Aladdin" in

Mrs. Brown's advanced theater class. Though Rachel excelled in Choir and Drama, she was also a competitive athlete. During Middle School she participated in Volleyball, Basketball, and Softball. She played on the Frosh Volleyball team her freshman year.

Some of the things that were important to Rachel other than school and sports included having fun hanging out with her friends and spending time with her family. Rachel enjoyed cooking in the kitchen for fun, watching movies on the weekends, and looking through teen magazines.

Remembered for her kindness and warm heart, Rachel is etched into our hearts. The world is a better place because of her and we are lucky to have known her. Rachel is our angel now.

The poem at the top of this page was written by Rachel's younger sister, Abby. She recited the poem at Rachel's funeral. Many friends, family, and students from S.H.S. attended the service. Rachel, you are in our hearts forever! We love you! ★ This page completed by Kilee Johnson.

I sit at the table, staring blankly into the vase of roses that rests in front of me. A slight breeze blows the leaves softly and I flick a dead petal off the table. It floats to the ground, resting gently in a pile of the same.

I don't know how long I have sat here, in this chair, at this table with these flowers. Every day another petal falls, taking with it a piece of my spirit. Some day, the flowers will be gone, their beautiful colors faded to rusty yellow and their crumpled bodies lying dead on the ground. One petal will be left and it will be at the end—sleeping quietly beside me on this very table.

After the year is over we reflect

Most years the yearbook staff is a little panicky by June. It's not that the staff hasn't worked hard (and procrastinated mightily!), it's all the other stuff that gets in the way of timely completion of the tasks at hand—sports come to mind, lost film, twitchy computers that haven't been serviced since

Truman was in office, no heat for the entire month of December, slow ads sales, boyfriends, friends in general, injuries, and unreasonable attacks from The Larus.

On the other hand, we had a lot of fun this year and we learned to complete a yearbook in an entirely new way—on disk. We had Elliott Weed keeping the show running and teaching us such advanced computer skills as “turning on your Mac.” The new thermostat works automatically, ad sales (thanks to Kevin Irish) set new records, and we all learned to get along. The Larus? Well, after years of providing quality photos to the school newspaper, this year The Larus returned the favor “big time” (a technical term far too complicated to explain to the layperson—The Larus knows what we mean) and we could not have completed such details as spring sports without them!

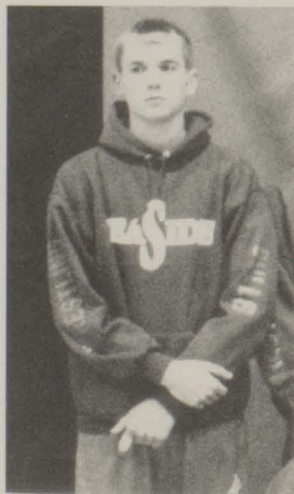

Gary Anderson ran color film to and from Costco, Liz Beckman brought treats, and the custodial staff and secretarial staff kept the facility running while we lost our minds.

This is how things looked by the end of the year, except Jeff Hendryx wasn't here anymore.

Seaside High School had 543 students in February 2001 • The staff used PowerPC Macintosh computers with PageMaker 6.5 and PhotoShop 6. Before & After also used Jostens Yeartech and was submitted on disk • Ten pizzas were eaten to get us through work nights every Wednesday • The Seabreeze was printed in an edition of 350 copies at the Jostens plant at Visalia, California.

Ready to make some money. Seaside High School Seabreeze staff takes a brief moment to pose on Broadway in Seaside before venturing out into the community to sell ads. Back: Kristina Kabanuk, Kate Ayres, Lauren Yokum, Heidi Orr, Molly Dueber, Libbi Baum, Elliot Weed, Dana Benson, & James Kirk. Middle: Jeffrey Hinton, Michelle Olson, Kilee Johnson, Jessica Erhardt, Holly Snair, Julie Visser, Vito Cerelli, Kevin Irish, & Jan Priddy. Front: Ashley Mersereau, Nick McKenzie, Ben Fry, Nora Beckman, Heidi Ter Har, Lindsey Oyala, Jeff Hendryx, Erin Reilly, Charlie Gilliam, & Jared Cederstrom.

Autumn: Autumn is a time for transition and remembrance. The sun peaks through the towering trees along the river bank, reflecting a mirror image upon the murky water. Staff photo.

Winter: Winter is brisk and chilly in Seaside. Dark clouds hover above the west entrance of the high school, a sign of cold and rain. A little blue peeks through the blanket of grey. A dismal day in our little town. Photo by Nick McKenzie.
